Acquisition Enhances AgriVision Equipment’s Commitment to Customers’ Success.

For Immediate Release – Pacific Junction, IA: AgriVision Equipment, a family owned, full-service John Deere farm and consumer equipment dealer, announced today the company reached an agreement with Van-Wall Equipment, Inc. to acquire the Onawa, Iowa location in late June, 2018.

Area customers will reap the benefits of a future focused company, passionate about helping customers succeed. AgriVision Equipment brings an innovative partner approach to the business, assisting customers in solutions far beyond equipment and technology. “We strive to know our customers on a personal and professional level. We have a shared vision with our customers and enjoy helping customers and their communities find comprehensive solutions to their challenges and opportunities,” says Jeremy Ostrander, CEO of AgriVision Equipment.

The AgriVision Equipment team is eager to get alongside customers in Onawa and the surrounding areas. The Onawa location is centrally located to the other AgriVision Equipment stores. Being centrally located, will enable customers quick access to over $25M in parts inventory, highly trained service/support, and innovative technology offerings.

AgriVision Equipment thanks the Van-Wall group for the opportunity to continue a strong relationship with the Onawa customers and employees and looks forward to serving the communities in this area for many years to come. A smooth employee transition is expected, and timing was planned around enabling a strong focus going into harvest.

Rooted in 100+ years of Midwestern farm heritage, AgriVision Equipment will now have 16 convenient locations in Iowa, serving customers throughout the Midwest.
